

179. God is love.

God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good
No one needs to tell me
How I ought to live
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good

If someone steps up
Claiming to know
How you should behave
Then walk away, please go
Foolish rulers
Know nothing, at all
They are the bringers
Of misery and sorrow

There is only one thing you need to know
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God,
God is,

good

Goodness and love are all that is needed
So much goes wrong because of those in high places
They deem you expendable, want to get rid of you
While you suspect nothing;
their game is dirty, sneaky faces

There is only one thing you need to know
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God,
God is,

Elitist devils with no awareness
Or feeling—they are true psychopaths
Impossible rules, wanting to be rid of you Wanting to eliminate, because they hate... you

They hold the reins of power,
Even playing God
Yet know no love or mercy for you
They are rotten through and through and through and through rotten through and through

God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God,
God is,

They divide up the wealth
Living in their bubble, hunny
Award each other prizes
While demanding your money

They are rotten through and through and

God, God, God is love,
God, God, God is good
God, God, God is love,
God, God, God,
God is,

good

God is,
